

HOLDS SALARY RAISE ON LUMP SUM IS ILLEGAL

Appellate Court of First District Decides
San Mateo County Case—Davis Gives
Notice Not to Pay Salaries

Again there is a decision in regard to the legality of raising the salaries of county officials, and again District Attorney Davis has filed notice on County Auditor Lester and County Treasurer Joplin that he believes the payment of salaries to deputies under the salary act passed for the revision of compensation for the offices in Orange county to be illegal.

It will be remembered that a test action was brought in this county by W. R. Newman, as deputy assessor, against the county auditor, to compel him to draw a warrant under the new act. Judge Wilbur of Los Angeles, sitting in this court, decided against the raises. The case was taken to the Appellate court of this district, and the act was upheld in the case. District Attorney Davis wanted to take the case to the Supreme court, but County Auditor Lester decided to draw the warrants, and without his client the district attorney could not go to the higher court.

In the meantime, an action bringing into question the legality of a raise provided in San Mateo county, was brought in the Appellate court at San Francisco. District Attorney Davis entered the case with a brief. The action was one in which Pauline E. Hanson, as an additional deputy for an office that had never before had a deputy, was plaintiff, and the auditor was defendant.

The decision holds that where an office already has deputies, additional deputies may be provided, but that where a lump sum is allowed to cover compensation and expenses of an office an additional deputy is an increase in compensation and cannot be allowed.

This morning District Attorney Davis served the following notice on County Auditor Lester:

"To Cal D. Lester, County Auditor of Orange County:—You will please take notice that a recent decision in the District Court of Appeals of the First Appellate District of California, in the case of Hanson vs. Underhill, just received, decides that deputies provided for county officials who did not have deputies provided by law prior to the act of March 25, 1909, being section 4244 of the Political Code of California, are not legally entitled to have warrants drawn in their favor to have their salaries paid out of the county funds.

"You will therefore take notice that you cannot legally draw warrants in favor of any such deputies for the payment of their salaries out of the county funds of Orange county, as such warrants are illegal and not authorized by law.

"S. M. DAVIS, District Attorney."

A similar notice was served upon County Treasurer Joplin, the final paragraph reading:

"You will therefore take notice that the payment by you to any such deputies provided for by said act is illegal and not authorized by law, either on warrant or otherwise; and you will further take notice that all sums paid by you to such deputies can be recovered from you by a proper action."

It is generally understood at the courthouse that the payment of salaries will continue as they have under the decision of the Appellate court of this district and the advice given following that decision. This attitude is taken on the ground that appellate courts are not bound by the decisions of each other, that the Appellate court, First Appellate district, has no more bearing upon the counties of the Third district than have the decisions of the Superior court of San Diego or the Superior court of this county.

District Attorney Davis has always contended that the decision in this appellate district decided only that where deputies were already provided others could be added, and that it did not touch the question of adding a deputy where an office was on a lump sum basis. Attorneys Williams & Rutan, who represented the courthouse officials backing the Newman action, take the view that it is not a question of how an individual office is compensated as it is how the county as a class is designated; that a county may be considered a county with all offices on a lump sum basis, or even where one office only has a lump sum for the principal and provision for deputies—as on a lump sum and deputy basis.

The deputies have all been drawing their salaries under the new law, except Deputy District Attorney Finley.

Whether or not the San Mateo case will be taken to the Supreme court is not known here.

FATHER CLARK WAS WARMLY WELCOMED

Hundreds Fill Church to Hear
Him Speak—130 Banned
With Him at Rossmore

The visit of Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement which has now grown to be world wide, to Santa Ana will long be remembered and counted a red letter day by Christian Endeavorers of Orange county. Accompanying the distinguished churchman here were J. P. Wells, state general secretary, W. N. Jenkins of Oakland, and Paul Brown of Los Angeles, field secretary. They were received by prominent Christian Endeavorers and taken on a ride through Tustin and other beauty spots in this vicinity. One of the pleasant features of the ride was the meeting at the Orange station of the other party of distinguished Christian Endeavorers which included Wm. Shaw, international secretary, and three state officers, the party being on its way to San Diego.

The banquet at the Rossmore at 5:30 o'clock, was a delightful affair, the state and national colors being used in decorations, and covers being laid for about 130 people. Mr. Brown was introduced by Miss Lulu Minter, and in a few brief words he introduced the famous Christian Endeavor founder, Dr. Clark. Dr. Clark made a short talk, giving a little description of similar banquets he had recently been tendered, in Honolulu, in Japan and in Agra, India.

The meeting at the First Presbyterian church held in the evening was largely attended, hundreds of people filling the auditorium of the church in welcome to the "Father of the Christian Endeavor." Dr. Clark's address was a review of his recent pilgrimage around the world, and on the advance of Christian Endeavor work everywhere. He was followed by J. P. Wells and W. N. Jenkins, who called attention to the coming state convention at San Jose, July 1-5, and the national convention to be held at Atlantic City in 1911. Attention was called to the fact that an effort would be made to secure the 1913 national convention for Los Angeles, and that it would be necessary to have a large delegation on hand to pull for it. Pledges were then taken for money to aid in the extension of C. E. work in foreign lands.

Following the meeting many pressed forward to meet Dr. Clark and the state workers. Messrs. Wells, Jenkins and Brown left the city Saturday night, but Dr. Clark remained over until Sunday morning, departing then with the "God Speeds" of many new personal friends.

SENATOR ALDRICH SAID TO BE NEAR COLLAPSE

WILL ACCEPT DEED TO PARK ADDITION

Probably at the meeting of the city trustees tonight, the city will accept the deed to the addition to Birch Park. The $5000 has all been raised. Of that amount the city pays $3000. The committee secured the remainder by subscription.

RESOLUTIONS WERE PASSED

Situation in Regard to River Control Discussed at Meeting

About sixty men were present at the new river meeting at the city hall Saturday afternoon, among them being the directors of the Newbert Protection District and the Talbert and Delhi Drainage districts. Resolutions expressing gratitude that the recent litigation over the protection district is at an end were passed.

Attorney Keech explained the present legal status of the district. Chairman Coulter reviewed the history of the formation of the First Street Land & Improvement Co., organized for river control work, followed by the organization of the protection district. During the litigation the new river committee secured a 300-foot right of way to Talbert Drainage ditch No. 1. This committee has borrowed $8000 for the work it has done.

Engineer Kellogg discussed plans for river control. He said that about every ten years there came excessive floods.

The following resolutions were passed:

Whereas, It is apparent by the statements made by the chairman, that the Newbert Protection District, by the recent decision of the Supreme court, is a legally organized corporation and the bond issue valid, and that organization can now take charge of the work of procuring a right of way and construction of the river channel and thus relieving individual efforts along this line. Therefore be it Resolved, First, That we congratulate ourselves and the people of Orange county, especially the property holders in this district, on the outcome of our efforts for river protection. Second, We desire at this time to acknowledge our obligations and express our thanks to the First Street Land & Improvement Co. for their movement for river protection, and in the preparation, with the assistance of Mr. Keech, of a bill for the formation of a river protection district; also to Representative Bishop and Senator Anderson for securing the passage of the same; also to the supervisors, city trustees, the directors of the Newbert Protection District for their timely assistance, encouragement and co-operation during the past two years; and especially to the new river committee of thirteen, who for the past two years have directed river improvement, secured the present right of way, and in a large measure financed the project, and all others who have assisted with cash or encouragement.

Third, That we express our confidence in the directors of the Newbert District and urge them to take immediate steps to secure right of way and proceed with the work of river protection. And to the end that the harmonious efforts of the past may be continued in the future, we recommend that a committee of five be named to co-operate with the directors whenever and wherever needed.

The committee is: M. A. Menges, F. D. Plavan, A. T. Armstrong, A. Cole and F. F. Farnsworth.

LEAGUES TO MAKE CHOICE

Lincoln-Roosevelt Camp Is Divided Over Belshaw
and Mott

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—With Frank K. Mott, Oakland's mayor, as the most likely gubernatorial candidate of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, with Senator C. M. Belshaw as a dark horse, the executive committee of the League met today to endeavor to agree upon a candidate. The committee is divided over the two. Numerous compromises have been suggested, one being Attorney Hiram Johnson of San Francisco.

A majority of the out-of-town members are present. The committee went into executive session but announced that routine business would occupy most of the day. It is believed that Francis J. Heney will be offered the nomination of attorney general of California on the League ticket.

REVENUE CUTTER WILL SEARCH FOR MISSING MEN

SEATTLE, Feb. 7.—It is expected the revenue cutter Rush at Juneau will be ordered to immediately search for six men who left the wrecked steamer Farallan in Illiana bay seeking aid for their wrecked comrades. Senator Piles has been requested by Frank Burns, manager of the Alaska Steamship Company, owners, to secure the necessary authority to dispatch the Rush. Six left the ship January 7th for Kodiak. The belief is general that they are lost, as there have been several storms recently.

The six missing men are the second mate, Gus Swanson, seaman Otto Nelson and Charles Petersen, Captain Wedding and Engineer Albert Bailey. Burns believes that the men have landed at some Indian village as Capt. Wedding knows the country.

THREE MEN DIE BY GAS—MYSTERY CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—Peculiar circumstances surrounding the death of three men by gas has caused a police inquiry today. Alfred Harkinson, Harry Dietz and George W. Elder were found dead late yesterday in a room in the Ancon hotel near the waterfront. Parkinson engaged the room for himself and "wife" a week ago. The police are seeking for the woman who has disappeared.

STOCKTON, Cal., Feb. 7.—Alfred Henry Parkinson, believed to be one of the dead found in a San Francisco lodging house, and Lillian Woodbridge Martin Schroeder, who can not be found, secured a marriage license here Tuesday. The woman appeared nervous. Wednesday afternoon she went to a drug store and tried to buy carbolic acid. When questioned she confessed that she wanted to take her life. She said:

"I was married yesterday and my first husband has been dead but two months. I dare not return to San Francisco and tell my relatives. My brother-in-law would kill me."

No certificate of marriage has been filed with the recorder and local justices and ministers say they did not marry them.

EAST IN GRIP OF COLD WAVE

Zero Weather From New York to Florida—Some Deaths
—Poor Are Suffering

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The Atlantic seaboard is shivering cold today following a severe night. The poor of the big cities are suffering intensely. The temperature of this city is near zero. At Washington the mercury went below zero and at Philadelphia it was 12 above. More than five hundred sought shelter at the public relief stations here. The gale last night reached fifty miles an hour and shipping activities are at a standstill.

Cold Wave to Florida

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Intense cold has been gripping the East since Saturday night, when the thermometer registered from 12 to 14 degrees below in Utica. In this city the mercury stood one degree above zero, with a forty-mile gale blowing. A driving snow up the state made conditions worse. At Buffalo the mercury was three degrees below zero, the lowest registered for years. One fisherman was frozen to death. The cold, slightly moderated by its progress south, extended as far as Florida.

Man Frozen at Boston
BOSTON, Feb. 7.—With the wind blowing at the rate of 26 miles an hour, this city was caught in the clutch of a cold wave on Saturday night. The mercury went down to zero, one man being found frozen.

Coldest Night
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 7.—Saturday night was the coldest night of the winter, the thermometer registering 7 above zero.

KNOWS NOW JUDGE MEANT BUSINESS

Charles Adams, a runaway boy, knows now that Judge West of the juvenile court means exactly what he says. The boy was up recently for disobedience at home, and the judge placed him on probation, telling him he a chance to behave and if he did not behave he would be sent to the reform school. Adams broke his probation, and this morning he was sent to the state school.

Lecture on Mormonism
"The Mormon Religion" is the subject of the lecture by Rev. S. E. Wishard, D. D., in the United Presbyterian church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Wishard is in many ways a remarkable man. While he is eighty-four years old, he has the physical vigor and mental alertness of one of sixty years of age. In appearance he bears a striking resemblance to Gladstone, the great English statesman.

For sixteen years Dr. Wishard was at the head of the Presbyterian mission in Utah. I n that work he traveled over three hundred thousand miles, and never missed a train or failed an appointment. He knows the Mormon question and will tell you things you ought to know.

PROTECTION DISTRICT TO OFFER $49,950 BONDS

Newbert Directors to Decide First on Width and Course of Channel's
Right of Way

The board of directors of the Newbert Protection District will offer for sale $49,950 of the bonds of the district, the money to be used to buy right of way for the Santa Ana river channel and begin the work of harnessing the stream in that right of way. The district has authorized an issue of $185,000, but at the present time only $49,950, representing the first 135 bonds authorized, will be offered for sale. With a Supreme court decision backing the validity of the district and the bonds and the rate of interest, six per cent, the directors believe there will be a strong demand for the bonds.

The directors met on Saturday, and it was at that meeting that the offer of sale was decided upon.

The most important question before the board—and the one to be decided upon first—is the width of the proposed right of way and its location.

The new river committee has purchased a 300-foot right of way differing in its course from the 600-foot right of way originally laid out by Engineer Kellogg. When this right of way was purchased there was an understanding by resolution, spread on the minutes of the protection district board, that as far as possible the district would accept and buy at the price paid the right of way of the new river committee. The expression of the board meeting Saturday was that this understanding would be lived up to, and so far as possible the right of way will be used.

There was considerable discussion as to the width of the proposed channel. The engineer stated that his measurements of the last flood convinced him that his estimate of a 600-foot channel was none too big. He would not undertake to care for all floods in a channel any narrower. Directors Talbert and Geisler stated that in their neighborhoods there was a feeling that the channel should be 600 feet. Another director thought 400 feet would do.

After discussing the matter, it was decided that a trip should be taken along the river. Accordingly yesterday the engineer and directors went along the river channel from Rice's Point to the Fifth street bridge. On Wednesday a trip will be made from the West Orange S. P. bridge to the bridge at Peralta for the purpose of taking measurements of the actual volume of water of this recent flood. Engineer Kellogg expects to convince the entire board that nothing less than a 600-foot right of way will do. The actual volume in places where the entire river was confined can be measured in a number of places.

The directors decided that they would proceed as rapidly as possible toward laying out the channel.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held March 1.

Managua Fears That Rebel Attack Is Near

MANAGUA, Feb. 7.—The government is frantically trying to reorganize its fighting forces in anticipation of an attack upon this city. It is believed the revolutionists will attack Managua before Thursday. It is stated on good authority that the available defenders here number but 600, and it is feared that even with reinforcements under Gen. Vasquez, who is reported as retreating toward this city, the Garrison will be taken, as it is too weak to withstand an attack.

Warning has been issued to foreigners to seek refuge at their legations upon the approach of the rebel army. It is reported that the rebel generals, Mena and Chamorro, are reorganizing their forces, and are but forty miles away.

Without a word he entered the room, and instantly killed Mrs. George by sending a bullet through her head. He then cornered his wife, shot her in the head and then shot himself in the head.

It is believed that he fired five shots which were all found flattened against his skull, then it is supposed he procured a rope, reloaded his six shooter and while swinging in the air he shot the remaining bullets. Six were found in his brain and physicians marvel at the tenacity with which he clung to life.

Clews As to Identity of Woman's Skeleton Arise

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Feb. 7.—The first definite clew to the identity of the skeleton of the murdered woman found on Mt. Tamalpais was discovered today when Walter T. Solenberger, of Mill Valley, told Coroner Sawyer that he saw a young woman, apparently a school teacher, fitting the description exactly, start up the hog back trail every Saturday morning for eight weeks. She was always reading a letter. Solenberger believes she was from San Francisco because she arrived usually soon after the morning train. He said the last time he saw her was the Saturday following July Fourth. He lives near the trail.

If You're Waking, Call Me Early
If you're waking, call me early, call me early, Bridget dear,
There's jam to make, and bread to bake, and the "Ladies' Aid" meets here;
I hope I do not ask too much, but I must early rise,
To dust and wash and make the beds, and bake the weekly pies.

I used to think a maid would do these tasks at twenty per,
But I have learned not to expect such menial work of her;
I've learned to be most grateful to have a maid at all,
So if you're waking, Bridget, don't forget that early call.

QUACK DOCTOR IS HELD RESPONSIBLE

Michigan Woman Subjected to Torture in Alleged Paralysis Cure

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 7.—The coroner began an investigation today of the horrible death of Mrs. Paul Santos, alleged to be the result of treatment for paralysis by a quack doctor who has disappeared. It is alleged the doctor placed the woman's legs across a chair over a tub of hot water in which he had poured alcohol. He then thrust a red hot poker into the woman's legs. After several days of intense suffering Mrs. Santos died last night.

CROWDS FLOCK TO INQUEST OF SWOPE

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 7.—An immense crowd today attended the inquest into the death of the millionaire, Colonel Thomas Swope, who died mysteriously in December last. The inquest was at Independence, the county seat. It is expected it will develop some startling evidence, in view of the fact that charges that Col. Swope had been poisoned, followed the chemist's report that strychnine had been found in the organs of the bodies of both Swope and his nephew, Christian Swope, who died first. It is alleged the poisoning was done for the purpose of some one to gain the Swope millions.

FOREVER ENDS INDIGESTION

No Heartburn, Gas, Headache or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later

—Every family here ought to keep some Diapiesin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Diapiesin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure almost any chronic case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach trouble.

ESTIMATES OF COST OF DAM

Finley and Kellogg Present Figures for Fremont Canyon Reservoir

Orange News. A preliminary estimate as to the cost of a dam in Fremont Canyon has been made to the joint committee of the Serrano and Carpenter Water companies by Engineer S. H. Finley, and by them submitted to the officers of the two companies.

The Fremont Canyon dam is a part of the proposed water development plan made possible by the agreement between the water companies mentioned, and the Irvine company which owns the land along the Santiago creek in the canyon, by which, after years of litigation, differences were amicably settled and the way opened for development work that will mean much to the ranchers of the two water systems. The plan provides for the spreading of storm water over some 800 acres and for the construction of a reservoir in Fremont Canyon.

Following are the reports of Engineer Finley and of the committee: Santa Ana, Cal., Oct. 1, 1909.

Joint Com. Santiago Water Users:
Sirs—As per your request I have made a preliminary estimate, from data which I have at hand of the probable cost and capacity of reservoir in Fremont Canyon. A 70 foot concrete dam will cost approximately $45,000 and impound sufficient water for a constant stream of 100 inches for 350 days of 24 hours each.

A 50 foot dam will cost approximately $25,000 and impound sufficient water for a stream of 100 inches for 195 days.

The above figures are not based on borings or accurate measurements such as I would wish before even submitting them as an estimate, but they will serve for your preliminary discussion.

I built the Modjeska dam for $3500 which shows what an advantage it is to have material close at hand and in Fremont Canyon you would have the same favorable conditions.

Yours very truly,
S. H. FINLEY, Engineer.

Engineer H. C. Kellogg was also verbally consulted and offhand gave the following estimates based on the measurements of Mr. Finley's party which were submitted to him.

Mr. Kellogg's figures as to the probable cost of the dam, composed partly of rock from the adjoining hills were from $15,000 to $20,000 for a 50 foot dam and $30,000 for a 70 foot dam.

Respectfully submitted by Com.

THEY INJURE CHILDREN

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints

—You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health destroying and a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies contain an entirely new ingredient which is odorless, tasteless and colorless. As an active agent, it embraces the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal regulator tonics.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowels and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really no medicine for this purpose so good as Rexall Orderlies, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form, in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets 10 cents, and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Santa Ana only at our store.—The Rexall Store. JOHNSON DID UP ALL STARS

Big Fellow and Other Local Players Got the Game
2 to 1

(By F. H. Mitchell.)

Santa Ana 2, All Stars 1.
Yesterday afternoon the fans were given a chance to see the mighty Walter Johnson at his best. The big fellow worked in perfect form, and the 600 fans who attended the game were satisfied. It showed what the big fellow could do with perfect support to help him out. Walt took fifteen of the visitors down the line by the strike-out passage, and allowed but five hits.

"Little Midget" Brown, the most popular player on the local team, won the game with a drive to left center that was good for three bases, scoring R. Head.

The locals took the lead in the sixth inning, Gandil being the man to make the circuit. The All Stars tied it up in the eighth when Orendorf scored on Wiggs' two-bagger.

And with the never-give-up spirit the locals came to the bat in the last half of the ninth with the winning spirit. With two down R. Head was safe on an error, and Brown, with two strikes called on him, took his third and last chance and made good with a triple to left center, scoring R. Head and winning the game. These two teams play again next Saturday and Sunday.

Stop your car on the right hand side of the street, the law requires you to do this for your own safety as well as for the safety and convenience of others. If you are driving a 1910 Reo which has its steering wheel on the left side of the car, your lady can step gracefully to the pavement without being put to the necessity of either getting out in the mud or the equally disagreeable and distasteful alternative of climbing over or under the steering wheel, which is not only annoying but is undignified, to say nothing of the danger of damaging her frock and possibly her temper. Take no chances gentlemen, be on the safe side and the right side. You eliminate all this trouble if you buy a 1910 Reo and your lady will appreciate your good judgment.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON DELIVERED LAST NIGHT

Rev. H. E. Murkett Addressed Graduates
And Audience That Filled
Grand Opera House

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the High School was delivered last night at the Grand Opera House by Rev. H. E. Murkett, pastor of the First Methodist church. The order of service embraced an invocation by Rev. C. R. Douglass, scripture reading by Rev. J. A. Stevenson, prayer by Rev. Samson and benediction by Rev. George Greer.

The High School Glee Club sang the following numbers: "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Onward Christian Soldier," and "Pilgrim's Chorus," from Tannhauser.

The opera house was crowded to its utmost capacity and the audience listened attentively to the splendid sermon which follows, opening with the text:

John 3:2, "We speak that which we know and bear witness of that which we have seen."

Young people you have now gone far enough in your education to know that no importance is to be laid upon mere guesses and conjectures. Your work in the laboratory and halls of science have led you to realize that everything had a cause and that it may be presumed at least that the secret hidden in all things may be revealed to the devoted student. In your experiments so far your attention has been called to things which are easily demonstrated. A foundation has been laid for a study of things complex and mysterious. From this you may have gotten the idea that you can only know the truth about such conditions of life as are founded in the natural sciences. If you have not gotten this idea you may get it in your college life and may be led as are many to narrow your field of knowledge to the material life which enters your mind by the way of the senses.

All of the bigots are not in the church but are to be found in a large per cent in the faculties and student bodies of the various institutions of learning. There are too many students who limit their information to the mere mechanics of reason. They are so narrow and dogmatic that they will not allow that faculty which grasps truths of life by a kind of spiritual reasoning to enter their minds. The people of the church are broader, for they accept the positions of science and eagerly grasp for the findings of the telescope and microscope; they delight to become acquainted with the laws of life as revealed by the sciences and in addition to this open their minds to the truths and investigations that are going on in the field of human experience by the way of spirit or sub-conscious revelations. The truly educated man is he who will not shut the door of his mind against any field of information and experiment.

Too many students and professors sneer at or belittle the efforts made to discover the relation of the human spirit to the Divine, they are narrowed down to the dogmatic field of science, thus thinking people become confused upon religious questions. I want you to know that there is no conflict between the very latest findings of science and religion. Further than that I want to show you that we speak of the phenomena of religion and base our conceptions of them in the same way that science speaks of the phenomena of the natural world and proves them. The problems of the one are not unlike those of the other.

"We speak that we do know and bear witness of that which we have seen."

How We May Know God
Of course I realize that when I say we may know God there are people who say you will have to prove it. I know that there are others who say you must tell us what you mean by God. Almost everyone believes in God but not all believe in the God of the church. He is nature, or He is law, or He is eternal force but can it be shown that He is an eternal personality?

I say, in the same sense that the scientist declares his truths. "Yes," for we have seen Him.
All of you have discovered long before this that you are anchored to the earth. You can jump off from it but your flight is momentary. Something pulls you down again and you know that you are practically held to the earth. The world was so made that you must ever stay upon its surface. You cannot throw yourself into space if you wish. "Well that is nothing," says the materialistic scientist, "we are held to the earth by the force of gravitation." "I do not see any such thing," "Well," says he, "you have already explained it." I answer, "I do not see gravitation; I cannot hear gravitation; it is not intelligible to any of my senses. How then shall I determine it?" It is a mere spirit force.

Jesus said to the great scholar of old, "The wind bloweth where it listeth, thou hearest the sound thereof and canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth." It too is spirit.

We are told that we live in an ocean that we call atmosphere. The only way we know this to be true is that we have lungs which contract and expand involuntarily. In that action we breathe the atmosphere made for us as the ocean is made for the fish. Do the scientists bottle up some of this and experiment with it in the laboratory? Nay, it is spirit.

There are certain refractions and condensations of air called sound. This we learn is a mere nothing from science, and yet out of this mere nothing we create harmony which we call music; also transmit from one mind to another human thought. Sound leaves the vessel in mid ocean and rushes across space to be heard on a distant shore. Like the spirit leaving God to find man.

We are just now interested in the comets and we wonder about the arrangement of the heavens and especially do we marvel that all these worlds hold to their course. How does this earth keep out of the way of others? It is held by the attraction of the solar system. Can any one prove it? Does the earth revolve on its axis? We are so taught. Has anyone ever proved it?

I am talking to you this moment and you are receiving my thought. We have none of us seen this thought and we could not submit it to laboratory tests. After all the great foundations of science are not proved by material means. They all are reached as I have just shown you by the means of inductive reasoning.

Now it is in this same sense that we prove the existence of an eternal personal God. We must insist that a man shall not call himself a reasoning scholar if he refuses to allow the religious world to follow his means of induction.

We know and every one else knows that everything in this world has a cause on matter, molecules and force, of religionists are content to rest their cause on matter, molecules and force, etc., but this is not sufficient for a real scholar. Matter, molecules, force, etc., all must have a cause. Springing from these is a world of intelligence and thus somewhere behind all that is catalogued and collated by science there must be an intelligent being. Nothing begets nothing and therefore intelligence only can beget intelligence.

It is the mission of science to collect facts and assemble them in form but it is not the province of science to enter the field of truth. That province belongs to another department of learning. So we take the collated facts of science and dig under for the truth and find it in every case to be God. John Stuart Mill in speaking of nature's disasters tells us that cold freezes us, fire burns us, acids consume us, storms sink our ships, cyclones tear down our houses, and epidemics fill our graveyards. Yet he does not say that he has experienced any of these things. Isn't it strange that men will assume to know things in one field without personal experience and then refuse to listen to those who in the same way study the workings of life and discover God to be the cause of it all?

We know God because we have become acquainted with the spirit forces which are the very foundation of nature.

He who is spirit can only control all things by spirit forces.

It is assumed that in order to truly and scientifically enter the field of religion we must do it in doubt and in a questioning mind. The greatest attack upon the conclusions of the church is that they begin with an already defined faith. In other words they ask if we could reach the same conclusions we do if we were to begin without our long standing faith. Can you show me an instance where science begins without a belief or a preconceived notion regarding the phenomena to be investigated?

Did the steam engine come out of investigations from a foundation of nothing? You know that there was a strong belief that steam had power and the investigations verified the belief. Was not the automobile a theoretical belief long before it became a reality. Are the great feats of aviation the results of faith?

No man starts back to nothing to develop scientific principle, but he starts with the beliefs of his age and develops them or overthrows them.

Mathematical demonstrations are not in themselves knowledge. What does the geometrical theorem of itself amount to? Some of you, I presume, still think they are sheer nonsense. When you take these mathematical demonstrations and apply them to things being constructed you have their use.

In all your mathematical work you are first led to assume that certain things are true, which is akin to faith, and the rest of your life will be spent in verifying this faith.

The world for ages has been taught certain axioms regarding God, and with these mere axioms it can be assumed that God is, and then the rest of life must be spent verifying these axioms by experience.

Until you have done this you are refusing to use the fundamental requirements of knowledge, and when you meet so-called educated persons who sneer at you for doing this you are to stamp them as narrow and inconsistent.

We Have Seen God in Nature
Science too often assumes that when they have collated the facts about nature that the end is reached, but that is not true. There is no conflict whatever between the findings of science regarding nature and the beliefs of Christians. Science finds the facts and the church uses them. Science discovers how the forces of nature work and Christians taking these, find the purposes of God in this work.

Occasionally some profoundly educated person arises to say that the church is a back number. It does not believe the findings of science—meaning, of course, some of the advanced, untried teachings of the hour. This is not true. The church took up the spirit of the Renaissance; in fact compelled this great revival of learning.

When truth has been discovered to be different in some particular, the church adapts itself to it, and this only explains the history of the church. If the church is a back number today it is because it still deals with the findings of science yesterday. If the church, then, is wrong, science was wrong in just as laughable a way yesterday. This only shows that science is not perfect and the man who ties his all to it for all time is a perfect idiot.

Nature, we find, teaches us the truth about development. We have been compelled to see that nature is a continual unfolding. Nothing is made complete, but everything unfolds to completeness. Thus science declares itself squarely for evolution. With this theory the church has no more conflict than she had with science when it declared that the world was flat.

Taking this position of science, we study to see the cause of the unfolding and we find it is the same that we have believed in all the time. It is an intelligent God unfolding His great plans for the universe.

Thought cannot be satisfied with the mere discoveries showing how nature produces its results, but it instantly asks, why does it do this? The materialistic scientist has closed his ears against the why, because the answer is not within his reach without going to the field of religious research.

To have nature on every hand producing in such a way that it may be intelligible to mind, indicate that mind directs it. If you will but stop to think how readily the works of nature are read by intelligent beings you will see that they are directed by intelligence.

He who made even the little snow flake made it a perfect mathematical figure. Recently a magazine came out with its covers designed by enlarged photographs of snow flakes, and they were all true mathematical figures. These are no chance creations without form and unseemly. This is true of everything that exists upon the bosom of nature.

Everything is according to our own educated notions of laws and rules. It is strange that we should be so made that all nature harmonizes with our intelligence or that nature is so made that it bears the same stamp of knowledge that we ourselves take pride in.

Thus our very minds placed in a review of nature are compelled to see God, a personality, intelligently directing all things.

We Know God Through Moral Nature
In our search for God and in our consideration of the problems relating to the existence of God we must not eliminate the moral nature. The moral life of man is just as real as the plant life of nature.

Kant said: "Two things fill my soul with always new and increasing wonder and awe, and often and persistently my thought busies itself therewith; the starry heavens above me and the moral law within me."

We are never free from the thoughts of right and wrong; every act of our life either gives us a sense of approbation or regret. Wrongs will not not down, but will rise up within the soul of man and torment him. How vividly Shakespeare describes this. The ghost that dogged the steps of Macbeth and the dreams of King Richard III. are as real in our lives when wrong has been, courted.

Bobbie Burns sought the way of evil, and he wrote: "Regret! Regret! Shame! Ye three hellhounds that dog my steps and bay at my heels."

All of this is just the opposite of nature. She is cruel and never repents. She preys upon life existing upon her bosom, and never expiates her remorse or regret.

Mill said that "Nearly all the things that man is imprisoned or hanged for, nature does every day." Man looks at this destructive force of nature and is sad. He is above it. His nature has a moral tone.

The animals stalk their prey and torture them until death relieves the agony, and never once is there the twinge of conscience. Man hurries to the relief of the suffering prey and dispatches it. His moral nature is aroused.

In the moral realm, then, man is superior to nature and the animals. He possesses what is not seen in either. The thought of evolution will not help the problem, for science must be along existing lines. To have a form of life developing from other forms of life with elements within that never existed before, means a special work by an outside hand. Into the animal life already existing, then, the least we can say is, a Moral Almighty Hand transferred a conscience.

MISFORTUNE

Misfortune has its compensations. It uncovers and reveals the sneak and brings to the front the best there is in us. In stricken Paris, for instance, it is said that the police are unable to cope with the bands of marauders who are looting the submerged districts, and the inhabitants have organized what they call "Apache Drives" rounding up the looters and driving them into the river. On the other hand, the Red Cross is doing all that can possibly be done for relief, and there is our own Rodman Wanamaker who has volunteered to furnish a loaf of bread daily for thirty days to all who need it.

Then come across this side and take note of the long bread line in front of Salvation Army headquarters in New York, while a woman advances and deposits in the hands of the distributors a package containing $2500 in cash to "help out some" as she terms it, and then hastens away lest she be identified. And so it is everywhere.

There will always be those who are so lacking in pity that they will gladly rob the straving of their last crust and coin into money the misfortunes of their fellow man. As Robbie Burns would say, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn."

But thank God the story does not end there. The heavenly beautitudes obtain to a greater or less extent in the hearts of the large majority of mankind, and in some reach a degree of development that is heroic. In the humdrum of life but little is seen of this better side of humanity, but when some great occasion occurs, it shines forth in its native brilliancy. In the earthquake at San Francisco and in Sicily, it pierced the darkness as with the brightness of an angel's smile, and now in giddy Paris that is being swept by the raging waters, there can be found thousands who are forgetting their own troubles as they witness the misfortunes of others, and are instinctively fulfilling the Golden Rule. Yes, humanity is not all bad and disasters are not without their brighter side.

ALASKA GOOD BARGAIN

When on March 30 1867 this government bought Alaska, there were those who said we had paid seven millions for an iceberg, and Secretary Seward was bitterly criticised for the part he had played in it. But of course, we now know that it was a genuine bargain, and we are finding out more as time goes by.

For instance, and laying aside all other items that enter into its value, the government's Geological Survey has recently reported that there is in sight in Alaska 16,000,000,000 tons of coal, and that there is probably at least as much more in its unexplored regions!

The public is already advised of certain scandals that have resulted from the alleged attempts, more or less successful, of certain interests to get control of the coal measures of this territory by indirection, and certain high government officials being involved in the unsavory transactions.

It is now also stated that a measure is up in congress that is backed by a powerful lobby the object of which is to virtually make a gift of 5000 acres of this coal land to a Canadian syndicate and that to offset this bill, a responsible party from Alaska comes forward and offers the government fifty cents per ton royalty on all coal to be mined on a certain 5000 acres by him designated, with the understanding that no other coal deposits in the territory be granted on less terms.

On the coal above stated as being already in sight, this would yield the government the immense sum of $8,000,000,000. This proposition backed by a man whom even his rivals, the Cunninghams, say is responsible, has expoided with tremendous effect in the ranks of those who have evidently combined to get these lands from song.

The lobby at Washington will begin to sit up and take notice of the fact that it is not all clear sailing. If the proposition is well backed, it will result in an awakening that will make a new deal all around in the Alaska coal controversy. It will also have its effect on the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, and will be exploited by the friends of Pinchot for all it is worth.

But aside from all this, why should the government turn over these coal lands to private individuals at all, and why not work them for the benefit of the people as a whole, and thus to

The Adventures of An Amateur Tramp

VII.
Having heard, in times past, a great deal about the Kern River oil field, I decided to include it in the itinerary of my official tour of investigation. I was forced to remain in or near Bakersfield a day or two, while my steed was being repaired, and thought to absorb a little more useful knowledge while doing so.

The Kern River field includes several thousand acres of very hilly country. This territory is covered with skeleton like structures used to pump the oil up and hold the mortgage down, and with pools of a black substance that looks pleasantly like molasses and smells unpleasantly like dead cats. The field is divided into the holdings or leases of several companies, each company with its own skeletons, both on the field and in its closet; its board of rich directors and its horde of saddened investors; its town office presided over by a genius whose conversation exudes money; its dividends, present, promised or possible; its capital stock, which has the peculiar property of expanding when moistened; its preferred stock, through which the profits of the business are disbursed, and the common stock, through which large quantities of experience are distributed to the stockholders. My ideas having always been a trifle hazy on matters of finance—through my never having been in any way connected with the same—I may be slightly confused in my understanding of financial terms, but here are three which I think I have correct: Dividend—the profit recurring at stated intervals from a business enterprise; this should go to the stockholders; divisor—another name for director, usually a bald, well dressed gentleman, quite a bald near the north pole; quotient—the part of the profit actually reaching the stockholder after the dividend has passed through the director's hands.

With my usual luck for getting into work and out of trouble, I had been in the oil field not more than an hour when an official of the Associated Oil Co., impressed, evidently, by my bland, open countenance and innocent, child-like smile, prevailed upon me to enter the services of said company as a "gauger." Out in the broad, untrammelled elsewhere this term might apply to one who could gauge the good nature and financial condition of a friend as to the amount of a touch possible; the butcher as to the size of a meat bill one might run; or the landlady as to the so-onness of one's next move; in the oil fields a gauger is one who goes about over the field from place to place gauging or measuring the depth of the oil in tanks and reservoirs when full, and again when empty. The Associated Oil Company, which is a combination of a score or more of small companies, has a large number of tanks scattered about over the field. It has, also, five enormous reservoirs, one of them claimed to be one of the largest in the world. My business was to take soundings in these tanks and reservoirs, and as I did so, I often some extent at least, solve the coal famine question for the poor of the blizzard-swept sections of the frigid east?

A professor in the University of Chicago says that the United States is a nation of braggars. This is supposed to be upon the notion that seems to prevail in the Windy City that Chicago includes the United States.

Fifteen thousand saloons closed during the year 1909 is not so bad. Let the good work go on until there will be none to close.

turn a back somersault and notify the president, who, with glaring eyes, pale face and clinched teeth, would throw three back somersaults, call out the police and all the detectives and proceed to discover the dastardly wretch who would venture to steal a quart of oil from the Associated.

This company is a very benevolent institution. At the time of which I speak it employed some two hundred men. Having probably heard that sleeping out of doors on the ground is conducive to good health, it allowed many of its men to do so, and that despite the fact that after midnight the air in these hills becomes quite sharp, and that many little red ants, highly industrious by nature and keenly carnivorous by instinct, are to be found in the ground hereabout. Another thing that makes working for the Associated far from pleasant is the fact that the food served in their boarding house is of a very poor quality, being about on a par with the Aqueduct board. It was common talk among the men that the boarding house, under the management of a man named Butterfield, was paying the company a clear profit of about fourteen hundred dollars per month. As a consequence, Mr. Butterfield was most cordially detested by the men. One morning, three weeks after my arrival, and the day following Mr. Butterfield's departure on a week's vacation, the following placard appeared upon the boarding house:

"Good-bye Butterfield, dear old boy, We learn that you are leaving us With hearts o'erfilled with joy. Our memory of you, dear friend, Is not an unmixed sweet; 'Tis filled with thoughts of stalest eggs And rankest, toughest meat. And now, dear Butterfield, good old boy, If you'll but grant one last request, 'Twill fill my heart with joy. Please listen now attentively, Nor make my prayer in vain; Go lose yourself, dear Butterfield, And come not back again."

Of course, this could hardly pass for inspired poetry, but it was greeted by the men with uproarious approval.

That day I left the employ of the Associated Oil Co. I left, first, because, through my sending daily reports into the office, my hand-writing had become known; second, because the boss differed from me on literary matters. I dislike to work for a man who disagrees with me on literary matters; so, despite the fact that the foreman under whom I worked might be a married man with a family, I discharged him and went my way.

But I had not seen enough of life in the oil field, so I accepted a position—I believe that's the way it is usually expressed when you work hard for a job and get it—for the 33 Oil Co. I hired to this company as a chauffeur, my duties being the care and guidance of one quite tame wagon and two half-civilized scarlet mules. Scarlet was the color, not of their hair, but of their sins. "Well bred Kentucky, sir," was what the foreman, a maternally kind an paternally bald-headed man, called them, but ill-bred hyenas, sir, would have described them far better. "Pete" and "Chubby" were the names given them by the company; but by their drivers and others they were called—but there, what's the use; English has its limitations.

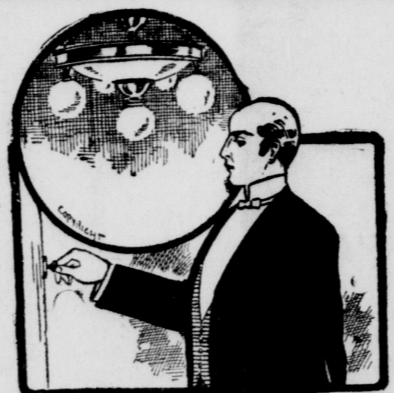

Working for the 33 Co. was far pleasanter than working for the Associated. A large, comfortable bunk room, with an iron bedstead was furnished every man, which was quite different from sleeping with only an industrious red ant or two between your person and the cold earth, and only such covering above as vivid imagination and an unshaken faith in Christian Science could supply. About thirty men were employed here, all under one foreman, who was always thoughtful and considerate of those under him. The food at the 33 boarding house, also, was excellent. As a result, the men working here were, as a class, much better and more contented than at the Associated. Some of the 33 Company's men had been with them a long time, while most of those at the other camp were common hobos. The Associated Company's gang were constantly changing, many of the men working only a day or two before leaving.

Luncheon for Officers

On Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Mrs. W. L. Tubbs, worthy Matron of Hermosa Chapter, O. E. S., gave a delightful luncheon for her officers, with Mrs. R. E. Dickinson, district deputy grand matron, as guest of honor. The lovely Tubbs home was beautifully decorated in a red and white color scheme, the color scheme also being carried out in the menu for the luncheon, the table decorations, and the place cards.

Immaculately attired, kid gloved, and solemn and imperturbable, an ebony faced waiter served the guests with a deftness and facility that made Mrs. Tubbs the envy of her friends, all of whom were at once eager to secure a similar treasure. A familiar twinkle of his eye or some particularly graceful action revealed to some discerning eye that the treasure of a waiter was Mr. W. L. Tubbs. The merriment that followed the discovery may easily be imagined.

ed. Mr. Tubbs, however, refused to be convinced of his identity, and regardless of the shower of jests and endeavors to get him to "fess up," played his part to perfection to the end of the luncheon.

The afternoon following the luncheon was socially spent in various diversions, the hours speeding away all too soon, so charmingly were the guests entertained. Those present were Mesdames R. E. Dickinson, Max Reinhaus, G. A. Whidden, Geo. Balderston, H. H. Reeves, L. A. Collier, W. L. Grubb, O. H. Hall, Jr., Arthur Pease, Earl Glenn, H. C. Kellogg, W. W. "The Country Squire"

Lee Willard in "The Country Squire," played to a good sized and very appreciative audience at the opera house Saturday night. The play is a simple story of old fashioned rural life in Vermont as it was about the close of the war. It depicts the every day life of plain, honest people of the mountain regions of this old New England state. There is no villain, no great hero, nor any startling climaxes, but it is full of interest just the same—a play wherein comedy and pathos are combined in a pleasing manner. The play in many respects is similar to "The Old Homestead" and "Shore Acres," and was well staged and was presented by a strong cast. It is booked for a return date next Saturday evening, Feb. 12.

WIDOW DECLARES HE WAS NOT A PARTNER

Mrs. Steydert States Man Deceived Her and Got Possession

When Mrs. Sadie Steydert made a search of her property at Newhope leased by her husband, Emil Steydert, who was killed by a horse near Anaheim, she discovered a gold watch and money missing. Her troubles are now increased, as is shown by a document filed with the county clerk today. She states that Richard De Fauw represented that he was a partner in the farming business with Steydert. Believing him, Mrs. Steydert turned the business over to him. Mrs. Steydert now finds that De Fauw was not a partner, and she has had the court cite De Fauw to appear in court on Feb. 11 at 10 o'clock to show cause why he should not give up possession of the property of the Steydert estate. C. H. Mattingly is attorney for Mrs. Steydert.

THE BROTHERHOOD TEAM WON 6 TO 3

Yesterday the Brotherhood team journeyed over to Huntington Beach to cross bats with the Huntington Beach Stars and returned with the smile of victory on their faces, having won the victory 6 to 3.

The feature of the game was the playing of Bill Pierce, who performed in the box and on third for the Brotherhood team. Holland also did good work for the locals in the box, allowing but four hits in seven innings. Then Pierce took his place on the mound the last two innings of the game, fanning five men and allowing two hits. "Bill" is a comer as a twirler, as he has all kinds of speed, curves and control.

The score:
Brotherhood .. 0 0 1 2 2 0 1 0 0—6
H. Beach .. 1 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0—3
Batteries—Pierce, Holland and Stambaugh; Smith and Collins. Umpire—Smith.

WATCH THE WATCH we repair and note how accurately it keeps time, how long it will be before needing repairs again. WE REALLY REPAIR WATCHES when they need it, but we don't say they need it if they simply need winding. Bring your old time piece in and have us make it go as good as ever and probably better.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

Don't turn food-crank because the things you like have risen in price. Don't boycott meat because steaks are expensive. If you do, you may get sick, because your teeth and your digestive apparatus were built for a mixed diet.

Eat more canned goods; they are cheaper than ever before. If combinations continue to control the prices of food products, the government may be obliged to enact anti-high-profit laws similar to those aimed against usury.

DR. HARVEY W. WILEY, Chief of Bureau of Chemistry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Dr. Wiley's advice to the housekeeper in the present financial crisis brought about in the family purse by the high cost of living, is to abstain from worry and buy everything she has been buying—only so much of it.

"A ten cent soup bone will flavor half a bushel of potatoes," said Dr. Wiley, "and will, if cooked right, taste just as good as a dollar steak. With the addition of an onion, a carrot and a sprig of parsley, that soup bone can be made to produce enough good, nourishing soup for a big family. Then, after the soup is made, save a little of the fluid and boil it down in the kettle with the meat. Then you'll have a 'pot roast' which, if made right, will be fit to set before the President.

"Canned goods of all kinds are cheaper than ever before in our history. Beans and peas have not risen appreciably in price, and make the best food for man. Wheat flour at the price it is now selling is the cheapest food that can be bought, and corn meal hasn't changed in price for the last ten years.

"If the American cook would study the methods of the French cook, who uses up all the 'left overs,' you would not hear so much about the increased cost of living. The average American cook throws away or wastes enough to keep the ordinary French family going. Over there they save every scrap of fat and every crumb of bread, and convert them into appetizing dishes. They know how to make the most out of the cheaper cuts of meat. Over here the average cook turns up his or her nose at the coarser grades of meat and thinks that nothing is good enough to eat unless it comes from the neighborhood of the tenderloin.

"Of course a great deal of the added cost of the price of meat products has come about as a result of combinations of dealers. The farmer is not getting much more for his cattle than he did ten or fifteen years ago. The government or the state will have to step in one of these days, if these combinations continue to increase the prices, and enact laws prohibiting dealers from making more than a certain amount of profit.

"This suggestion, of course, will be hailed with cries of 'paternalism.' Well, let it be paternalism, if you please. All government is paternal, when you come right down to brass tacks. If the government can enact laws declaring the amount of interest or profit a dealer in money shall make—like the statutes relating to usury—why should it not be justified in setting down the lines for the dealers in the necessities of life? The men who rob the market basket are more criminal than the men who extort money on illegal loans.

"A limit of say fifteen or twenty per cent net profit a year might be set down for the butcher and grocer. The dry goods merchant or the contractor who builds houses would be glad to make as much, and, if it worked out for the good of the people in the case of the grocer and butcher, might be extended to include the clothier, the shoe dealer, and all other tradesmen handling the necessary goods of life.

"Whatever you do, however, I beg of you not to become a food-faddist. I am therefore opposed to these six months boycotts against meat. The human frame was built for a mixed diet and to cut off meat suddenly is likely to play all kinds of havoc with the system. I have observed that those vegetarians, nut eaters and uncooked-vital cranks do not live any longer than the average run of us poor meat-eating mortals. I do know that they all look hungry, and whenever I meet one of them I am tempted to invite him into the nearest restaurant to have a good steak—if I happen to have the price.

"What the present situation requires is a little more judgment in buying, a little more judgment in cooking, and less worry over the food trusts."

Dr. Wiley specializes in eggs. He modestly says he is an expert on hen fruit, and the other day dropped little gems of egg wisdom to the members of the House sub-committee on the District of Columbia, during their consideration of the high cost of living problem at the capital.

The doctor appeared before the committee with about a peck of eggs of varying ages and dubious pasts, a bag of salt, and a big glass. In the latter he mixed a strong brine solution.

"If you want to know whether the eggs you are buying are 'strictly fresh' have really been laid this year," he explained, "just take a glass, fill it full of brine, as I have done, and drop the valuable farm yard product therein. If it sinks to the bottom of the glass, the egg is fresh and worth the money; if it rises to somewhere near the top of the fluid, it is not as fresh as it used to be, and if it floats well out of the water, it is of the sort that are supposed to be hurled at bad actors, and isn't worth anything a dozen."

The committee was interested immediately, and crowded around the doctor as he proceeded to test the eggs he had brought.

"That's a fine, fresh egg," he observed as one of the specimens dropped plump to the bottom.

"How do you know it is fresh?" asked Congressman Moore (Republican, Pennsylvania).

"Because one of my inspectors was at the hen house this morning and saw it laid," replied the doctor triumphantly.

The United States Census Bureau has begun to take the federal census of Manufacturers, Mines, Quarries, Petroleum, and Natural Gas for the year 1909, which comprises two of the principle inquiries embraced in the Thirtieth Decennial Census, the others being Population and Agriculture. The canvass is being made under the supervision of Mr. William M. Stewart, Chief Statistician for Manufacturers, and about 1,800 special agents will be employed eventually in the work, and they are from day to day being appointed by Director Durand from the eligible registers established as a result of the November 3 examination of candidates for these positions.

Director Durand has taken extraordinary precautions to assure the manufacturers that all answers will be held absolutely confidential. This statement is conspicuously displayed on the front pages of the various schedules, and it is also emphatically declared that no publication will be made in the census reports disclosing the name or operations of individual establishments in any particular. The act of Congress provides that the Bureau of the Census shall not permit any other than its sworn employees to examine the individual reports. It provides also that any employee who shall, without the authority of the Director of the Census, publish or communicate any information coming into his possession shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed $1,000 or be imprisoned not to exceed two years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

"There is but a limited time in which to complete this work," said Director Durand today. "It is essential that all the field employees exert themselves to the utmost. Those who do good work will be reassigned to other districts and retained in the service until the work is finished.

"If manufacturers or others furnish data object to a supposed disclosure of the secrets of their business, the special agents will assure them that the results of their individual business will not be made public. They are required also to explain that the information will not be used for the purposes of taxation, nor in any manner to identify the operations of the individual establishments, and will not be disclosed to any other bureau of the Federal Government. The intent of the law, which will be strictly carried out, is to prevent the disclosure of information which might operate to the detriment in any way of the person or establishment supplying it.

"The period covered will be, where- ever possible, that of the year ending December 31, 1909. In the majority of cases the data can be secured for it, as the business year of most establishments will correspond to the calendar year 1909. For establishments beginning operations for the first time during the year it will not be possible to make the report cover more than the period actually embraced.

"A manufacturing establishment, which is the unite of enumeration for the census, is deemed to be one or more factories, mills, or plants owned or controlled by one individual, partnership, corporation, or other owner, located in the same town or city, and for which one set of books of account is kept. As the statistics will be presented by kinds and by classes of industries, it is essential that the precise character of the work performed by each establishment shall be clearly determined. A general schedule must be prepared for each establishment reported, and, in addition, such special supplemental schedule or schedules as may apply to the industry, if any.

"The method of the canvass requires that a few days prior to the day when a given firm is to be canvassed the special agent shall mail to the manufacturer a copy of the general schedule, with the proper supplemental schedules, together with the request that they be filled out in readiness for the special agent on his arrival. In the event this has not been done at the time the agent calls, he will proceed to get the facts immediately.

"The information secured must be accurate. In drafting the schedule every effort was made to frame the inquiries in such a form that the answers to them can generally be taken directly from the books of accounts and the records of the establishment canvassed. In no case are general statements or estimates to be accepted where it is possible to secure answers directly from the books of accounts and records.

As there is a general interest in the subject of the comparative importance of the cities, States, and Territories with reference to the larger selected industries, it is exceedingly desirable that, from the standpoint of civic pride alone, the manufacturers throughout the United States should furnish the data without delay in order that the industrial centers in which they operate may be completely and correctly represented in the statistical tables. Every manufacturer is therefore urged to cooperate promptly and fully with the Bureau of the Census."

COMMON SENSE

Lead most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and advise its correctness under oath, are daily going in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the speech light of investigation turned fully upon his formula, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic, while not a regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

The egg situation holds the most attention on the market at present. Dealers in storage stock are almost hedging tears because of the heavy losses which they say they are suffering. They are dropping from $1.00 to $2.00 on every case of storage eggs sold. The market has declined considerably on account of the volume of fresh eggs arriving, and owing to the high prices of last spring, when the eggs were put in storage, the present sale price is as low as the buying price to the dealer last year. Added to this the cost of double handling and the season's best in storage, brings the cost of the eggs to about 25 cents a dozen. They are selling as low as 20 cents a second grade stock, candled out the best eggs. Some fear is entertained that the dealers will not be able to dispose of their entire storage holdings and several of the heavier holders are making frantic efforts to sell out, offering any increment to sell their stock. The storage eggs are showing wonderful quality after having been in the coolers from 8 to 10 months. Receipts of local eggs yesterday totaled 337 cases. Case count sold at 27 among the others.

Butter receipts of 19,456 pounds were not up to the standard. The market on butter of local make was quiet. Eastern storage is moving freely. The price paid on the street yesterday was 31 cents a pound for this stock.

Offerings of cheese were very plentiful, but there was absolutely no demand, this having been killed by the heavy receipts of Thursday when nearly every dealer in the city received some cheese to his own account. Receipts yesterday were 2600 pounds.

Potato receipts were 2900 sacks. The market was slow on spuds. There were no changes in quotations. Lompoc and Oregon Burbanks were good sellers.

Garlic prices are weak. The best grade is obtainable at 7 cents a pound. Some of it is selling as low as 4 1/2 cents.

A car of northern onions arrived. 401 sacks in the consignment. They were freely offered, but buying was not heavy.

Bean receipts were 402 sacks. Pinks were down to .475 among the dealers. Sales were light in all varieties. Arrivals of sweet potatoes totaled 124 sacks. Prices were a trifle more firm.

Red cabbage has been coming in plentifully. It is bringing 3 cents a pound. Celery is worth from $2.50 to $2.75. There were no changes in tomatoes or cucumbers.

Fish receipts were of good size and the demand was the best of the week. Halibut and rock cod were evident in preponderant amount. Small fish were rather scarce.

VALENTINES

There is no message of friendship, love, goodwill or affection that cannot be conveyed in a valentine from our stock

We are noted for valentines and our stock grows in importance. There is no let up in the interest shown for the pretty custom of sending a valentine.

from our stock you may select anything costing from one cent to a dollar and you will get good value for your money no matter what you pay.

Come in and look over the stock. They are interesting.

Sensible and Sentimental Valentines

Fancy and full of frills, yet sensible are some of our valentines. The best are, however, in boxes and are wonderful creations of art and patience in construction.

Everything delicate and refined is expressed in the selections we show. You will profit by a look over our stock. Price 10c to $1. It's interesting anyway. Come in.

Comic and Curious Valentines

The latest comic valentines are in the shape of postcards. These are rapidly displacing the crude old variety. The card is more convenient for mailing and the wide variety enables you to touch up the little failings of your friends in a really humorous way. Ours are from the real fun factory where they are busy the year 'round. Every one produces a roaring laugh. The price 1 cent each. More elaborate ones in the shape of a letter—hand-colored, 5 cents.

LOCAL TEAM BEAT RIVERSIDE 12 TO 1

The Santa Ana High School baseball team went to Riverside Saturday and played the High School boys of that city. The boys had a very successful game, coming out on top of the 12 to 1 score. The Riverside boys have a classy team but they couldn't hold together against the Santa Ana boys.

Tedford, for Santa Ana, pitched a wonderful game, holding the Riverside team down to five scattered hits. The Santa Ana boys binged out thirteen hits off the Riverside pitcher, which netted them twelve runs. On next Saturday the Riverside boys will come to Santa Ana and attempt to get revenge on the high school boys. The game will probably be played at Association Park, as the Lincoln grounds are not completed.

APRIL 11 DATE FOR OVERACKER'S TRIAL

In the Superior court this morning S. H. Overacker pleaded not guilty to the charge of murdering G. A. Winn, and his trial was set for April 11. Overacker appeared in court with his wife and son and his attorneys, Langley & Thomas. Attorney Thomas presented vigorous arguments on his motion to set aside the information, and on his demurrer. Overacker's attorneys asked that the case be set down for trial at a date distant ninety days. District Attorney Davis objected strenuously. He asked that Feb. 23 be fixed as the date. Finally April 11 was selected.

TO LIVE LONG

From good authority we learn that from infancy to old age a process of ossification is going on. The bones are hardening and the arteries become thickened with calcareous deposits. It is only a question of time, say the doctors, when the functions of the system will be blocked and the refuse deposited by the blood through-out the body will stop the delicate machinery we call life.

To prevent these lime-like secretions from accumulating to a dangerous degree, persons approaching old age should use little of food containing these earthy salts. Fruit, especially ripe, juicy apples, is recommended for persons of advanced years and it is said that distilled water is one of the most important means of preventing concretions and derangements of health. It is also recommended to use diluted phosphoric acid daily with the distilled water, 15 drops in each glassful of water.

These simple rules, in connection with plenty of fresh air, exercise and a happy, contented frame of mind, will go far in cheating old Father Time and prolonging our days. There would be many more centenarians in the land if men and women understood themselves as they should, but there is perhaps greater ignorance about the human body, its uses, its needs and the means of preservation than of any subject of minor importance. Living to be 100 years old may not seem desirable to many, neither would it be if one is to become feeble, decrepit, with failing sight or hearing and with faculties dulled and incapable of interest in one's surroundings. This, however, need not be if one begins in time to defend one's self against the ravages of old age. Our lives, our bodies, are what we make them. We have plenty of instruction nowadays as to what we should do, and with advancement in other ways the day has come when the man or woman of 70 or 80 is no longer a "back number" or relegated to the armchair, slippers and a cap, to be neither seen nor heard in public, and with nothing left for them to do but to wait, as patiently as they may for the end.

Household Economics

It is a true saying that "Some women can throw out with a teaspoon more than a man can bring in with a shovel." I have seen women pay 20 cents or more for laundry accessories, when they could get the same results by spending less than half that amount. The same waste can be readily noticed in regard to some housekeeper's strength and good looks. In some this extravagance is due to the lack of knowledge; in others it is lack of forethought; and in some it is just slackness and willfulness.

If the family washing is done on Tuesday, much confusion is saved. On Monday, the pantry is often "clean," so by baking on Monday, Tuesday can be planned for easily.

Sort the clothes, doing such mending as is necessary; remove all stains, and soak all the white clothes in clear cold water, putting those least soiled together.

Melt a piece of paraffine, about two inches long, two inches wide, and one-fourth of an inch thick, in the bottom of a saucepan. Into this put two level teaspoonfuls of borax, one bar of soap cut in small pieces, and two quarts of boiling water. Put on the back of the stove and let soap melt.

Tuesday morning put this mixture in the wash boiler and half fill with hot water. Wring the clothes out of the cold water, and when the mixture in boiler comes to a boil, put the cleanest clothes in first, boiling all white clothes twenty-five minutes.

While the white clothes are boiling, wash the flannels and stockings. These should always be washed separately. Rinse the flannels in water that is slightly soapy, being careful that all waters used with flannels are of the same temperature.

When the white clothes have been boiled, rinse them and blue them in warm water. Before bluing them rinse thoroughly, as the soap and bluing together rots the clothes.

Put a piece of paraffine the size of a pea into the hot starch and starch clothes while it is warm.

The suds in the boiler will be found splendid for washing colored clothes. Just a word about hanging clothes in the cold weather. Freezing shrinks flannels and fades colored clothes. To prevent tearing delicate white clothes, place in an old pillow case before hanging.

While getting supper Tuesday evening, hang up the stockings and flannels to air. Do not iron, as they are healthier without. Dampen the rest of the clothes, using warm water.

If beans have been baked on Saturday and cookies made the following would be an easy and tasty supper for a tired woman to get. Beans warmed in Tomato Sauce. Brown Bread and Butter Apple Sauce. Cocoa Cookies

TOMATO SAUCE
Cook a level tablespoonful of chopped onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter, thicken with a level tablespoonful of flour, add one large cupful of strained tomatoes and cook until smooth. Put on the back of the stove, add the beans and let heat.

MOLASSES COOKIES
Cream one cup of sugar and one of shortening; add one well beaten egg, two cupfuls of molasses, one level teaspoonful of salt, one heaping tablespoonful of ginger, and three level teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in four tablespoonfuls of sour milk. Mix as soft as possible, using between six and eight cups of flour. Roll thick and bake in a moderate oven.

On ironing day a good fire is needed and the top of the stove should be clear. Consequently all meals should be planned so that all the cooking is done in the oven.

When we consider how much depends upon a sick person having the proper kind of food one feels that too much thought or care can not be given to this subject. Not only must the food be nourishing, but it must be daintily served in order to tempt the capricious appetite.

It is not unusual to offer the same food two or three times, and surprise is expressed if it is refused. Offer only a small amount at a time, and if any is left throw it away.

Oatmeal gruel is superior to corn meal, as it is less irritating to the stomach. Cook the oatmeal thoroughly, strain and add an equal amount of milk, season with salt and cook a few minutes longer. In making flour gruel be very careful to have it thin; a pasty gruel is positively nauseating.

In making beef tea trim all the fat off very carefully and cook slowly for three or four hours, then strain. As beef tea is more of a stimulant than a food, bread should be served with it if the patient is able to take solid food. For this purpose trim the crust from a slice of bread, cut into one inch square pieces and brown in the oven.

Chocolate or cocoa is a very nourishing drink if not made too rich and thus overtax the stomach. Toasted Graham wafers are very nice to serve with it. Rice is one of the safest foods, especially if there is any bowel trouble, but it must be cooked until perfectly soft, for even rice if half cooked may be injurious.

Cream toast is liked by most people. A simple way of making it is to heat half a cup of cream, season with salt and pour over a slice of bread well browned and buttered. Let it stand a few minutes before serving. Plain boiled custards should take the place of heavy steamed or baked custards.
